Item 9. Regulation FD Disclosure

Management of The Chase Manhattan Corporation reiterated today the following comments regarding Chase Capital Partners, its private equity investment business, originally made at an investor presentation on October 18, 2000:

"Chase is continuing to explore the best way to present to investors the contribution that Chase Capital Partners ("CCP") makes to Chase's overall shareholder value. Chase has not considered, and is not considering, exiting the business and does not intend to spin off CCP as a separate entity. CCP is a business with a consistent track record of providing excellent returns to shareholders over a long period of time, fully compensating for the additional volatility it contributes to Chase's earnings."
