The table does not reflect that your interest payments can vary over the term of your notes.

Contingent Interest

If the notes have not been automatically called and the closing price of each Reference Stock on any Review Date is greater than or equal to its Initial Value, you will receive on the applicable Interest Payment Date for each $1,000 principal amount note a Contingent Interest Payment equal to $30 per annum (equivalent to an interest rate of at least 12.00% per annum, payable at a rate of at least 5.00% per quarter).

The hypothetical payments on the notes shown above apply only if you hold the notes for their entire term or until automatically called. These hypotheticals do not reflect fees or expenses that would be associated with any risks to the secondary market. If these fees and expenses were included, the hypothetical payments shown above would likely be lower.
Selected Risks

- The notes may not pay more than the principal amount at maturity.
- The notes do not guarantee the payment of interest and may not pay interest at all.
- Any payment on the notes is subject to the credit risk of JPMorgan Chase Financial Company LLC and JPMorgan Chase & Co. Therefore, the value of the notes prior to maturity will be subject to changes in the market's view of the creditworthiness of JPMorgan Chase Financial Company LLC or JPMorgan Chase & Co.
- The appreciation potential of the notes is limited to the sum of any Contingent Interest Payments that may be paid over the term of the notes.
- You are exposed to the risk of decline in the price of one share of each Reference Stock.
- Whether a Contingent Interest Payment will be possible and whether the notes will be automatically called will be determined by the Last Performing Reference Stock.
- The automatic call feature may force a potential early call.
- No dividend payments or voting rights.
- The utilization of a reference index is limited and may be discretionary.
- As a reference company, JPMorgan Chase Financial Company LLC has no independent operations and has limited assets.

Selected Risks (continued)

- The estimated value of the notes will be lower than the original issue price (price to public of the notes).
- The estimated value of the notes is determined by reference to an internal funding rate.
- The estimated value of the notes does not represent future values and may differ from others' estimates.
- The value of the notes, which may be reflected in customer account statements, may be higher than the then current estimated value of the notes for a limited time period.
- Lack of liquidity: J.P. Morgan Securities LLC (who we refer to as JPM) intends to offer to purchase the notes in the secondary market but is not required to do so. The price, if any, at which JPM may be willing to purchase notes from you in the secondary market, if at all, may result in a significant loss of your principal.
- Potential conflicts: We and our affiliates play a variety of roles in connection with the issuance of notes, including acting as calculations agent and hedging our obligations under the notes, and making the assumptions used to determine the pricing of the notes and the estimated value of the notes when the terms of the notes are set. It is possible that such hedging or other trading activities by J.P. Morgan or its affiliates could result in substantial returns for J.P. Morgan and its affiliates while the value of the notes declines.
- The tax consequences of the notes may be uncertain. You should consult your tax advisor regarding the U.S. federal income tax consequences of an investment in the notes.
